UPDATE FROM THE COUNTY ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS ASSOCIATION OF CALIFORNIA (CAOAC)

The County Administrator's Association recently welcomed Gayle Erbe-Hamlin as its newest member, with her appointment as the El Dorado County Administrator. Gayle was previously the Director of Public Health Services for El Dorado County and replaces Laura Gill, who became the new City Manager for the City of Elk Grove. As we welcome a new member we also wish Bart Bohn, CAO of Fresno County, farewell as he has announced his retirement as of September 2008. Bart provided outstanding leadership and service to Fresno County for the past seven years and retires after a public service career of more than 41 years.

On a personal note – effective September 1, 2008, I have resigned as the Executive Director of CAOAC. I will remain as the contact for CAOAC until a successor is hired. For the past two years I have had a wonderful experience assisting CAOs, members of the Boards of Supervisors and CSAC Staff. However, the most enjoyable experience I had was my brief assignment with the Corporate Associates program. I had a wonderful opportunity to meet people that provide a wide array of services and products to counties. I am genuinely grateful for the kindness that was extended to me by so many of you. I wish each of you continued success. I will remain part of the CSAC family as I have accepted a position with Vanir Construction Management, a long time member of the CSAC Corporate Associates program.

-Brent Wallace, Executive Director, CAOAC
