Pretrial Justice and Realignment: Implications for County Criminal Justice Systems

Friday, June 28, 2013 ♦ Sacramento ♦ 10:00 – 4:00

Pretrial Justice in California Counties.

During the era of realignment, pretrial justice is becoming of greater and greater importance as local criminal justice systems grapple with increased demand for local resources.

This is the first in a series of courses designed to help counties establish and enhance pretrial justice practices.

This session will provide an overview of legal and evidence based principles for pretrial justice in California. The session will explore the public safety and cost saving implications of pretrial justice practices. Policy level strategies and tools for understanding and improving the administration of pretrial justice at the local level will be provided.

Highlights include:

- * Legal principles of pretrial justice: Interpretation at the local level and strengthening legal expertise in California.
- * Lessons from the field: Examination of recent research and cost-saving examples from across the country.
- * Where to begin: An overview of the steps counties can take to initiate and improve pretrial justice practices at the local level.
